FINANCIAL.

Neither changing seasons nor the European war have the effect of breeding results in the money market; yesterday was the fourth of the month, but a little increase in the usual routine business was all the change produced. Money continues to be plentiful at 8@10 per cent, per annum; on the street 10@12 per cent., but applications for it are few. The decreased sales of cotton the past week have decreased sales of colton the past week have diminished the offering of exchange; the rate on New York and eastern par buying, ¼ premium selling; New Orleans ¼ discount, sellmium selling: New Orleans 4 discount, selling at par. Fall River is sometimes taken at ing at par. Fall River is sometimes taken at par. Gold has been lower for some days, quoting yesterday at 105%, the previous quotation was 105%; here 104%, with next to nothing doing. Looking elsewhere we find just the same uninteresting quietude reigning that is so conspicuous here; the principal topic of attention is the effort making at the United States the asury to prepare for the resumption of specie payment at the time prescribed by congress. It is worth while to observe that while a large portion of the commercial press favor resumption, most of them find fault with every individual plan for securing the object, most of them have a system of their own that is much better than any other yet invented. In the local market the usual duliness has existed all week; some Memphis gas stock changed hands at 97½, and more is wanted, but the July dividend is near and there is little disposition to sell.
